An Evening Echo.

There are many religions, but there is only one morality.—RUSKIN.

The new West Virginia Democratic bosses doubtless heaved a sigh of relief, when the United States Senate voted that Senator Lorimer was entitled to his seat.

Since the state university is officially connected with the newspaper business, the resident editor of the institution ought to publish an article on "The Necessity of Greek Declensions in the Everyday Life of the Average West Virginian." The people seem to be paying for this sort of editorial service and they ought to have it.

Senator Scott's Retirement.

Full realization of the true worth of Senator Nathan B. Scott takes possession of the people of his state now that he is on the eve of retirement to private life. Not only is there deep regret in this state but it extends to other states. As the "Pittsburgh Gazette Times" says, there are three states which have a peculiar interest in his retirement. Continuing the Gazette-Times pays the following deserved tribute to Senator Scott:

"Mr. Scott is a native of Ohio and he has been representing the people of West Virginia in the Senate; but so much alike are the interests of that state and of Pennsylvania, that every vote he has cast in behalf of his own constituents has made also for the welfare of this commonwealth. So it is with sincere regret that Republicans generally witness this veteran Republican leader's disappearance from the distinguished body in which he has served with fidelity, intelligence and patriotism. West Virginia suffers a distinct loss, and coming so soon after the death of Senator Stephen B. Elkins the retirement of Mr. Scott is especially to be deplored. Our neighboring state was notably fortunate in having two such representative men in the Senate of the United States—men who measured up, as they did during their terms, not merely to the aggressive policies of the Republican party, but to the aspirations, necessities and wonderful possibilities, industrial and economically, of West Virginia.

"A Union soldier, then a glass manufacturer, for thirty years in public life and for almost a quarter century a Republican national committeeman, Senator Scott is recognized as one of the Old Guard of his party. His service in the Senate has been coincident with a period that will rank as epoch-making in the history of advanced legislation in the United States and of the Republican party. In all that has gone forward he has had his part and accepted his responsibility. He has been assiduous in attending to his duties, he has stood squarely for Republican principles, and he has worthily reflected the public sentiment of the state which honored him with its confidence."

An Extra Session.

While Governor Glasscock is considering the question of calling an extra session of the legislature, he should not overlook the character of the legislature. Governor Glasscock in his earnest sincerity and zeal to see enacted into laws questions of vital importance to the welfare of the people of the state, irrespective of political affiliation, may entertain the belief to some extent that the legislature is made up of men of like kind. A retrospection, however, of what the legislature really did and a knowledge of what its majority represents ought to satisfy the governor of the uselessness of calling an extra session. The people realize the futility of trying to get measures in their interest through the present legislature and they will attach no blame to Governor Glasscock, if he does not convene the solons in extra session.

Along this line the "Wheeling Intelligencer" presents a few thoughts worthy of consideration and reflecting the "Miserable Failure of 1911," as a Huntington newspaper calls the legislature. The Intelligencer says:

"Purely from the standpoint of partisan politics, Republicans could not ask a better situation, than has been created by the corruption, filthiness and worthlessness of the late legislature. From the standpoint of good citizenship it is impossible to see what benefits will come to the state from the reassemblage of a body that made such a deplorable record in the forty-five days that have just closed. Certainly no one expects this legislature even in extra session to advance any measures that might be seriously opposed by corporate interests. * * * Possibly some action might be secured on the general primary election law, but even that is very doubtful, and while a general election law is desirable it is not of that pressing importance that demands an extraordinary assemblage of individuals, who to say the least are not a credit to the state.

"Governor Glasscock has shown an earnest desire to forward a number of progressive measures of great importance. In his eagerness to advance these measures he may entertain the hope of some favorable action at an extra session, but figs don't grow from thistles nor grapes from thorns."

Melodrama at Morgantown.

Much fuss is being made at Morgantown about the pitifully "inadequate" salaries that are paid to teachers and professors connected with the state university. Columns and columns of discussion are being published there in regard to the recent dismissal of Professor Henry S. Green as a teacher of Greek at the university and in every other paragraph a few sympathetic sobs are thrown in about the pittance that are doled out to starving pedagogues. Babies are crying for food and overseers of the poor are kept busy carrying side meat and flour from house to house. It is worse than cheap melodrama.

Since the question has been given so much prominence, it is to be expected that state-wide comment will be made upon it and, no doubt, even further publicity will be given it. Statistical tables of the salaries and expenses of the university teachers may be looked for and detailed discussion of the situation in its economic aspect will doubtless be forthcoming. If these university teachers are forced to waste away their lives and starve their families the question may well be asked why they accept such ill paid positions. It may seem very peculiar to some that men of learning and ability cannot find a market for their services in this day of progressiveness when brains and skill are in great demand. The doctrine is held by some that a man generally receives about as much as he gives, in accordance with the law of compensation, and when such a sobbing, heart-rending, pitiful, distressing series of wails goes up from the great seat of learning in this state about niggardly salaries at the university, suspicion naturally is aroused in respect to the capacity and intellectuality of those engaged there in lifting the youth of the state from the slough of ignorance and inefficiency. It is not very good advertising.

This is given a vivid example of the very thing for which Professor Henry S. Green was dismissed from the university faculty as the result of action on the part of the State Senate. The practice of dragging the university into political controversies and into other unnecessary discussions was deemed to be pernicious and Professor Green had to go. So long as some one continues to wave the bloody shirt over the university, that institution will fall into disrepute and just so long will both teachers and students suffer in a measure from the very evil that several prudent statesmen at Charleston endeavored to eradicate.

Exponent in Error.

Evidently, the Exponent takes it that the people are fools, when it gets off such boob as the following paragraph:

"The anxiety of the Republican state senators to humiliate an eminent professor of the West Virginia University by forcing the board of regents to dismiss him is a most practical demonstration of the game of politics as played by the machine Republicans of West Virginia."

The writer of those lines forgets that the finance committee of the Senate was comprised of five Democrats and five Republicans. It forgets that Senator Silver, a Democrat and chairman of the finance committee, made demand on "Dr." Green. Indeed, its manifest ignorance on the subject is so palpable that argument in refutation is really unnecessary, except to call to account such recklessness as the brain-storm shown by the paragraph quoted. May one not inquire whether the declaration quoted was meant to be in defense of the "eminent doctor?"

To show how little sympathy "Dr." Green is entitled to, permit the Telegram to arrest attention to the fact that Prof. Green has published considerable rot of late about the alleged unjust treatment of himself by the state senate. His utterances in this respect remind one of the Biblical injunction about casting out the beam in one's own eye before pulling out the mote in another's. The professor has been discharged from his teaching position at the university and it is generally understood that he was discharged for just cause, yet he intends to impose further on the state by continuing to teach his scholastic year. Doubtless he labors under the delusion that the university would go to smash were he to leave it. Certainly the hint for him to leave the university faculty was broad enough, but that is the way with some persons; once in a while they have to be hit between the eyes with a meat axe before they can be made to understand a simple proposition.

But, reverting to the original proposition, it is only necessary for the Exponent to refer to the Charleston Gazette, another Democratic newspaper, to prove the fallacy of its own assertion. The day before the Exponent declared itself as stated, the Gazette discussing Prof. Green's case in the state senate said that the finance committee of the state senate "was displeased with the university situation. That was sufficient. We hardly believe that the ten members of that committee, divided equally between the parties were actuated by political motives."

Here is an expression by a Democratic newspaper that is discussing the case without political motive, design or bias and its view is certainly to be accepted as much sounder than that by a newspaper, whose assertion on its face shows conclusively that its only motive is a political one.

CONSUMPTIVE SYMPTOMS

Newark, O.—"About two years ago my wife was in very poor health. For three months she suffered from a bad cough which had settled on her lungs—she was run-down, reduced in flesh, and had all the symptoms of consumption. She began taking Vinol, and before the first bottle was gone she was improved in health—before she had finished her third bottle, her cough was gone and she was well."

"We cannot say too much in praise of Vinol—N. L. Stebbins." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

In pulmonary troubles Vinol shows its power for good. It goes to the seat of trouble, heals the inflamed surfaces and cures the cause of the cough.

In hundreds of cases where cod liver oil and emulsions have failed, Vinol has succeeded because it contains all the curative value they do—but its good work is not retarded by useless grease and oil.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.—Stone & Mercer, druggists, Clarksburg, W. Va.

COLDS ARE BROKEN

How to Cure a Bad Cold and End Grippe in a Few Hours.

Nothing else that you can take will break your cold or end grippe so promptly as a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

The most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatic pains and other distress begin to leave after the very first dose.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

Famous "Pint of Cough Syrup" Recipe

No Better Remedy at Any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing one pint of granulated sugar and ½ pint of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the faded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lung, and asthma, and an unequalled remedy for whooping cough.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in gualic acid and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B. W. L.
